I have had the privilege of working with Sue for the past 9 years. I have enjoyed getting to know her both professionally and personally. Sue is the ultimate professional and she also brings a beautiful warmth and humanness to all her interactions.

Sue has the ability to design and deliver high impactful content on Leadership and Management programmes. She is a skilled facilitator and really connects with the executives that she works with, making her highly sought after. She is a highly respected facilitator and has facilitated on both local and international programmes for many of the GSB's key clients.

Sue is also a highly rated Programme Director. She has designed and lead several Senior Management programmes. Sue has also designed and continues to deliver a highly rated Women in Leadership programme for a key client. Sue sees herself as part of any organisation that she works with and always has the organisation's and client's best interest at heart. Her excellent relationship management skills has lead to a 100% retention rate of the clients that she has worked with.

Sue is also committed to her own development. She is always learning new things so that she can add more value to her programmes. This is evident in her high programme ratings

Sue is a great thinking partner, a great collaborator and is an asset to the GSB team and the clients. The Executive Education team and the clients love working with her.

I can highly recommend Sue Anderson and I can promise that she will elevate the game of your business if you have her on your team.
